

I oppose the weakening of Indiana's 'Do-not-call' law.

Since my primary phone is a cell-phone,
not only are unwanted calls a breach of my privacy, but I end up having to pay for them as well.

I believe that I have the right to determine who is able to call me,
With any weakening of the law,
many companies would be trying to find loopholes to say that they have 'current business' with us.

It is a downward spiral that I don't want to be allowed to start.

Thank You,
Mr. Christopher Karst
